AN ACT concerning legal holidays and amending various parts of the statutory law [P.L. 2008, c. 89 and R.S. 36:1-1].

BE IT ENACTED by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey:

1. The Legislature finds and declares that:
   a. The Emancipation Proclamation was issued by President Abraham Lincoln on January 1, 1863, freeing all enslaved people living in Confederate states.
   b. However, it was not until June 19, 1865 that enslaved Black Americans in Galveston, Texas learned that the Civil War was over, and they were free.
   c. It is important to remember that neither the Emancipation Proclamation nor the end of the Confederacy freed all enslaved people, instead it only freed enslaved people in the Confederate states.
   d. Enslaved people living in Union states that bordered the Confederacy were not freed until the ratification of the 13th Amendment on December 6, 1865.
   e. Additionally, Black Americans were not fully recognized as citizens until the passage of the 14th Amendment in 1868, and Black men were largely prevented from voting until the passage of the 15th Amendment in 1870.
   f. Juneteenth commemorates June 19, when word of freedom finally reached the enslaved people in Texas and jubilant celebrations evolved into a general celebration of freedom.
   g. Juneteenth is also a reminder for all Americans of the hardships that Black Americans have endured for centuries in this country and an example of Black Americans often being the last to benefit from any change.
   h. Despite the passage of the 13th, 14th, and 15th Amendments in the 19th Century, Black Americans were still fighting for civil rights throughout the 20th Century.
   i. 100 years following the Emancipation Proclamation and the Reconstruction Amendments, Black Americans were fighting to pass civil rights reforms that would truly reflect the message and meaning behind that proclamation and those amendments.
   j. The Civil Rights Act of 1964 and the Civil Rights Act of 1968 were monumental achievements for Black Americans and yet another, long overdue step in their quest for equality.
   k. However, over 50 years later, Black Americans still face oppression in many forms in the United States.
   l. Black Americans are often viewed as “less than” by far too many in the United States, and this view of them is easily

EXPLANATION – Matter enclosed in bold-faced brackets [thus] in the above bill is not enacted and is intended to be omitted in the law.

Matter underlined thus is new matter.
Matter enclosed in superscript numerals has been adopted as follows:
documented in reports on health outcomes, employment, housing, education, and incarceration.

m. For example, the number of Black Americans who have died during the COVID-19 pandemic is exceedingly disproportionate to that of other Americans.

n. Black Americans are also viewed as a threat by many in the United States, which often leads to unnecessarily combative and violent confrontations with police officers in the country.

o. While only accounting for 13 percent of the United States population, Black Americans are killed in over 25 percent of police-related shootings, often while unarmed and not committing violent offenses.

p. While many in New Jersey may believe this does not relate to the experiences of Black Americans living in the State, they would be wrong, as New Jersey has a long history of racism and discrimination.

q. One example is in schools where, even to this day, the vast majority of Black children in the State attend schools that are over 70 percent minority, segregating them from the white children in the State.

r. Designating Juneteenth as a State holiday may shed a light on the daily life experiences of Black Americans in this State and lead to progress, as the time has long passed for Black Americans to feel safe and equal in the United States.

s. Juneteenth can simultaneously serve as a reminder of how Black Americans are often the last to benefit from good news in this country and a promise to eliminate this gap in the future.
