display the baker’s current, valid food handler certification issued pursuant to subsection a. of section 3 of this act at the point of sale¹;

e. Baked goods shall be packaged in a manner that prevents or reduces the risk of contamination, unless the size, shape, or other characteristics of a baked good makes such packaging impractical or unnecessary; and

f. Each baked good sold or offered for sale shall include a label containing the following information:

(1) the name of the home baker ¹, the home baker’s food handler certification number,¹ and the address where the baked good was prepared;

(2) the name of the baked good, including a description of the type or nature of the baked good if not apparent from the name;

(3) any major food allergens used as an ingredient in the baked good, including, but not limited to, eggs, nuts, wheat, soy, dairy, and peanuts; and

(4) the following statement: “This food ¹[is made] was prepared¹ in a ¹[home]¹ kitchen that ²[is] may² not ²[be]² subject to ²[regulation and] regular² inspection by ²[the Department of Health] health authorities².”

3. a. ¹[The Commissioner of Health shall promulgate a list of food handler certification agencies that are approved to issue food handler certificates to home bakers and other persons for the purposes of this act. The Department of Health shall have no other authority to regulate or inspect home bakers or the sale or production of baked goods prepared by home bakers.] ¹(1) An application for a food handler certification authorizing the individual to sell baked goods prepared in a kitchen in a private home pursuant to this act shall be submitted to the department for approval. The application shall include:

(a) the nature and type of each baked good that the home baker intends to prepare and sell;

(b) an acknowledgement that the home baker will only be authorized to prepare and sell those home baked goods expressly included in an approved food handler certification, and that the home baker’s food handler certification may be revoked upon a third or subsequent finding that the home baker has sold baked goods not included in the baker’s food handler certification;

(c) an attestation that the home baker will report income as required under State and federal law; and

(d) an attestation that the home baker will comply with all applicable State and federal labor laws.

(2) There shall be no limit on the number or types of baked goods that may be authorized under a single food handler certification, provided that the baked goods are limited to those express authorization pursuant to subsection a. of section 4 of this act. A home baker seeking to prepare and sell a baked good not authorized under the home baker’s current food handler certification may submit an application for an amended food handler certification or include the additional baked goods in an application to renew a food handler certification. The fee to apply for an amended food handler certification shall be $50 or the actual administrative costs of processing the application, whichever is less. A home baker may apply to amend a food handler certification no more than once per certification period.

(3) Upon approval of an application for initial or renewed certification as a food handler, the home baker shall pay a certification fee of $300 to the department.

(4) A food handler certification issued pursuant to this section shall be valid for one year and shall be renewable upon application to the department. The department shall provide the home baker with at least one written notification of the renewal deadline no less than 30 days prior to expiration of the home baker’s current food handler certification. The failure to submit a renewal application prior to the expiration date shall result in immediate termination of the food handler certification upon the expiration date, and the home baker shall be prohibited from selling baked goods prepared in a kitchen in a private home unless the home baker applies, and is approved, for a new food handler certification.

b. The local board of health having jurisdiction in the municipality in which the home baker resides or in which the home baker prepares, offers for sale, or sells baked goods shall conduct an inspection of the kitchen that will be used by each applicant for a food handler certification prior to issuance of the certification, and shall have the authority to conduct an inspection of [the] baked goods or the place in which the baked goods are prepared [upon reasonable belief or credible report that the baked goods, or the conditions under which the baked goods are prepared, present an immediate and serious threat to human life or health] as often as the local board of health deems necessary. If the board finds [the] baked goods or the conditions under which they are prepared constitute an immediate and serious threat to human life or health, the board may order any appropriate relief, including, but not limited to: confiscation or destruction of the baked goods; remedial action to correct an unsafe or potentially hazardous condition; or issuance of a temporary or permanent injunction prohibiting the home baker from preparing and selling baked goods temporarily suspending or permanently revoking a food handler certification issued to the home baker. The department shall develop a procedure for providing notice to local boards of health when a person located within the jurisdiction of the local board of health applies for an initial food handler certification, and for receiving a report concerning the results of the initial inspection of the kitchen or other areas that will be used by the applicant to prepare baked goods. Home bakers applying for or issued a food handler certification under this act shall provide the local board of health with access to any kitchen or other area or location used by the home baker to prepare baked goods for the purposes of conducting inspections pursuant to this subsection.

c. The preparation and sale of baked goods by home bakers pursuant to this act shall not be subject to regulation or restriction by municipal ordinance.

d. Nothing in this section shall be construed to restrict the ability of a neighbor or other affected person to institute a nuisance action against a home baker.
