STATEMENT

33

This Assembly Concurrent Resolution amends the State Constitution to require that a State refunding bond issue that proposes to increase the principal amount of outstanding debt beyond the costs of the refunding must be approved by the voters.

34

35

Under the State Constitution, the issuance of State bonds must be approved by the voters. Under amendments made to the Constitution in 1983, no voter approval is required to issue new debt for refinancing of previously issued bonds if the new debt will provide a debt service savings to

1 the State after the new debt is used to pay off the old debt. The act
2 implementing the 1983 amendment permits debt service savings to be
3 determined on the basis of the present value savings of the refunding (a present
4 value savings means that in terms of today's dollars the value of the stream of 5 principal and interest payments due and payable over the term of the refunding
6 bonds must be less than today's value of the stream of principal and interest
7 payments due and payable over the term of the outstanding bonds).

8 Currently neither the Constitution nor the implementing act restrict the 9 principal amount of the refunding bonds that may be issued except to require 10 generally that the principal amount not exceed an amount necessary to 11 refinance the outstanding bonds.

12 The extent of the present value savings to be achieved through a refunding
13 and how that savings may impact on the State budget are not currently stated
14 in the Constitution or in the refunding act but are left to the discretion of the 15 issuing officials with the approval of the Joint Budget Oversight Committee.
16 Under this amendment those issues would still be discretionary, but a refunding 17 that proposed to increase the principal amount of debt outstanding beyond the 18 costs of the refunding would require the approval of a majority of the voters
19 at a general election, the same requirement as for an original State bond act.

24 Proposes constitutional amendment requiring voter approval of State bond
25 refundings that increase principal amount of total State bonded indebtedness.
