HIGHLIGHTS OF THE 2nd CONGRESS

On October 29th, 2005 the Commission hosted the 2nd New Jersey Italian American Congress at Rutgers University in New Brunswick. The program featured presentations from Commissioner Richard Billotti and Advisory Council Chairpersons Gargione and Dr. Poiani, on the Commission’s progress in meeting the objectives set by the 1st Congress last October. The presentations were punctuated by UNICO speaker Ralph Contini, who read the Governor’s Proclamation on Italian Heritage Month and former OSIA President Angelo Bianchi, who touched on the changes in perceptions of Italian Americans today. Keynote speaker Assemblyman Paul DiGaetano highlighted the contributions of Italians and Italian Americans and delighted the attendees with a delivery in Italian and English.

The half-day event brought together leaders from the Italian American community who separated into planning groups to discuss political and business networking, promoting the Italian language and Curriculum Project, promoting a positive image of Italian Americans and coordinating efforts of Italian American organizations in NJ. Two new documentary film trailers were shown and twenty-five exhibition tables promoted Italian American organizations. The Bloomfield Mandolin Orchestra performed during the lunch. Chairman Larry Paragano commented, “This is an important, recurring event for Italian leaders as they work to promote the Italian Heritage in the State of New Jersey.”
HISTORY AND PURPOSE OF THE CONGRESSES

Beginning in 2004, the Commission’s Community Advisory Council (CAC) and Community Outreach Relations Committee (COR) has organized statewide conventions for the Italian American community the State of New Jersey. These Committees are among the fifteen Committees of the Commission and are comprised of twenty members, drawn from different professions and regions of New Jersey. Their focus is to create networks among the NJ Italian American community and increase the public’s involvement in promoting the Italian Heritage. The Commission hosts these conventions as a means of generating direct lines of communication between the public and the Italian American organizations. The Commission organizes presenters on particular topics of interest and then records public requests and suggestions in an effort to develop program ideas, create future community events, and advise the Italian American Community of New Jersey.

Each year, the Congresses are structured around a central theme; in 2004, the theme was “Unifying the Efforts of New Jersey’s Italian American Organizations”.
